9-1-1 EMERGENCY TELECOMMUNICATOR

Do you have what it takes to work in one of the fastest changing careers in the world?

Do you want to be proud of the work you do and KNOW that you are making a difference?

Do you want to help save lives?

Do you want to work in a safe, clean environment?

Do you have a good grasp of technology – a clear, strong speaking voice – the ability to stay calm in a stressful situation?

If you answered "yes" to those questions, then maybe you are a great candidate to be a 9-1-1 emergency telecommunicator. You could be the calm voice on the other end of the line helping to deliver a baby or reassuring someone in distress that help is on the way. We are public servants and you must have a drive to help people or this isn't the career for you. Our ideal candidate will have a criminal justice, fire service or emergency medical background. This isn't necessary, but preferred. We will be conducting testing a monthly basis.
