RE: Rise In Hepatitis A Cases

As a result of an outbreak of Hepatitis A in Southeast Michigan, the Bay County Health Department is urging residents to get the Hepatitis A vaccine and practice proper hand washing techniques to prevent the spread of the virus. Hepatitis A is a highly contagious liver infection and is contracted when a person ingests fecal matter from contact with objects, food, or drinks contaminated by feces or stool from an infected person. It can range from a mild illness lasting a few weeks to a severe illness lasting several months.

There are currently no confirmed cases of Hepatitis A in Bay County related to the outbreak in Southeast Michigan. However, there is potential for the virus to spread across the state. The best way to protect yourself from contracting the Hepatitis A virus is to get vaccinated along with the following:

- Wash hands after using the restroom and before eating or preparing meals for yourself or others
- Use your own towels, toothbrushes, and eating utensils
- Do not have sex with someone who has Hepatitis A Virus infection
- Do not share food, drinks, drugs, or devices used for smoking such as cigarettes, e-cigs, etc. with other people
- If you think you may have hepatitis A, see your medical provider
- If you have hepatitis A, please cooperate with your local public health agency to help protect others

Symptoms of Hepatitis A can include: fever, fatigue, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, dark urine, clay-colored stools, joint pain or jaundice (yellowing of the skin and eyes) Symptoms will occur over a period of time and usually start appearing 4 weeks after exposure, but can occur as early as 2 weeks and as late as 7 weeks after exposure. If you begin experiencing any of these symptoms contact your health care provider.
